

for Shopify

A2X gives Shopify merchants confidence in their financials, knowing their numbers add up. A2X posts Shopify sales and fees directly into Xero, QuickBooks or Sage in tidy summaries that match the payments to the bank account.

Customer pain points that A2X solves

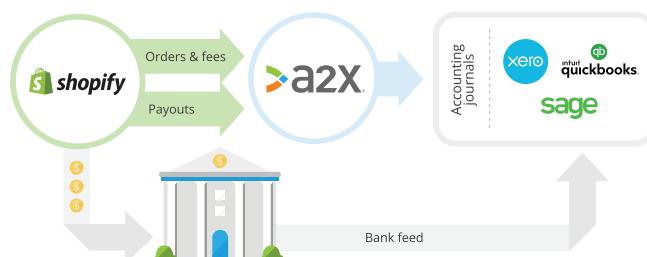

It's not easy to accurately account for Shopify sales and fees. Merchants are dealing with:

- Batch payments from card processors.
- Different currencies and taxes.
- Several payment gateways e.g. PayPal.
- Transactions that span month-end.
- Many Shopify stores that need to be connected to Xero, QuickBooks or Sage.
- Cost of goods sold (COGS) timing differences.
- High transaction volumes that could swamp Xero, QuickBooks or Sage.

This can make reconciling Shopify sales and fees a nightmare. A2X automates this process and makes accounting for Shopify a breeze.

How A2X works

1. Connect A2X to your Shopify store and your accounting system in minutes.
2. A2X loads your Shopify transactions, then maps them against your chart of accounts, and allocates them to the correct financial periods.
3. A2X then posts summarized journals into Xero, QuickBooks or Sage, that exactly match the batched net cash received from Shopify payouts.

Publication date: August 2021
